MONDAY, JULY 20, 1908.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,750

Evidently the Democrats of Washington county were trying to satisfy Barre as they gave this city the nominations for one senatorship, the sheriff, the high bailiff and would have placed the state's attorney nomination here if there had been a Democratic lawyer, or so it was stated in the convention.

Generally accepted notions about comparative safety of railroad travel were disturbed in the White Mountain express train wreck at Greenfield, Conn. Thursday when the five parlor cars were smashed; while the five day coaches, supposedly more frail and therefore less capable of protecting their passengers, stood the test and didn't even tip over. The one person killed and a majority of those injured were riding in the parlor cars. But the greater confidence placed in the parlor cars will not be entirely shaken because of this one exception to the general belief, for in nine out of every ten wrecks heretofore noted, it has been the fact that the lighter day coaches sustained the worst damage and the people riding in them sustained the greatest casualties.

WON'T "CRY BABY."

The determination of the American athletes now competing in the Olympic games in London to stick it out in spite of what they consider to be adverse decisions will be applauded by their supporters in this country. If they should withdraw from a contest which is now unusually close with Great Britain, they would draw to themselves the charge of "crying baby," whether that charge be merited or not, as the surface indications would present that appearance. It will, therefore, be better for them to stick it out to the bitter end, come what will, and avoid the charge of quitters that would be hurled at them otherwise. They should go it all the harder; and, win or lose, they will get the commendation of the millions of people this side of the water who are watching their efforts.

WAIT 'TIL THE CAR STOPS.

A word of caution has become necessary to warn users of the Barre-Montpelier electric car service who have become heedless of the dangers which are apt to arise. People are jumping on and off the cars when the vehicles are in motion, in apparent disregard of their personal safety; and there has been one fatal accident recently from carelessness of this sort, while the escapes from serious consequences in other incidents have been a matter for wonder on the part of those who have witnessed them. Only yesterday a young man came near losing life or limb through foolhardiness in trying to board a rapidly-moving car on lower Main street, being dragged a considerable distance with legs dangling dangerously near the wheels. His only salvation was a firm grip on the side arms of the car. Had he not been an athlete he would surely have been rolled under the car. "To avoid accident, wait until the car stops"—a warning attached to all the cars—must be absolutely obeyed, else some more people will rue the day that they allowed their carelessness to get away with themselves. Wait until the car stops!

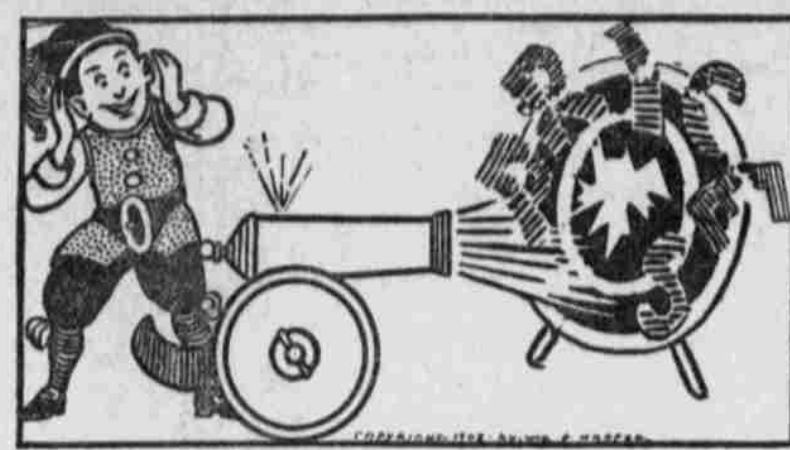

CURRENT COMMENT.

Jimburkized.

The Vermont Democracy has finally succeeded in "unloading" B. B. Smalley as its member of the national committee. This is not suicide, that was already accomplished. It is simply denunciation of the remains. That the once party of Smalley is now the party of Jimburkism is its omega.—Hardwick Gazette.

A Sizeable Expense Account.

According to the report of the state treasurer, published in outline in yesterday's Herald, the orders of the auditor and the orders of the state highway commissioner, paid from the state treasury for the term ending June 30, 1908, aggregated $1,073,193.47. This on the face of it, would represent the expense of the state for the past year. It really is quite a sizeable sum, for a state whose population is perhaps 400,000 people.—Rutland Herald.

A Prediction.

They seem to have a hard time to find anybody to run against D. J. Foster for Congress in the first district. All of the other aspirants for the nomination withdrew before the convention, leaving the field clear for D. J., and now T. W. Maloney of Rutland declines to run as the Democratic nominee. But then Halvoso, the candidate of the labor union, is still in the field and he may decide to keep D. J. company until September 1, when Mr. Foster will leave him by several thousand majority.—Morrisville News and Citizen.

Local Political Fights.

When two candidates for the same county office come up in one town, it is always best to let the action of the town caucus, as between the two, be final, and not carry the fight on. Orange county has had demonstrations of both kinds. Windham county has just had hers. Vinton, defeated in Brattleboro for the Senate, tried to beat Gibson at the county convention with outside votes. He created a condition whereby the Gibson delegates from Brattleboro were compelled, in order to win, to dicker with the Rockingham delegation on "hog terms" dictated by the latter. Gibson got in, but Rockingham scooped about everything else.—Rutland Herald and News.

Militia on Wheels.

The state rifle range at Fort Ethan Allen has been abandoned by the adjutant general this year and the annual competition will be held upon the range of Company F at Northfield the first week in August. Here's a fresh reason for giving up the state camp grounds at Fort Ethan Allen and making the annual muster of the Vermont regiment a movable affair to be held in various places about the state as may seem convenient. Certain it is that the citizen-soldier of the state is heartily sick of the "barren waste" about Fort Ethan Allen and would welcome "pastures new." And compelling the citizen-soldier to do something he dislikes and loathes has never proven a great success anywhere.—Rutland Herald.
